TRISTATE CAPITAL HOLDINGS, INC., RINGS NASDAQ OPENING BELL

PITTSBURGH — May 9, 2013 — To commemorate the first day of trading on the NASDAQ Global Select Market for TriState Capital Holdings, Inc., (“TriState Capital”), the holding company for TriState Capital Bank, the company’s founders rang the Opening Bell at the NASDAQ MarketSite in New York City this morning.

Founders Jim Getz, chairman and chief executive officer; Bill Schenck, vice chairman; and Mark Sullivan, vice chairman and chief financial officer, opened the first day of trading for TriState Capital in Times Square, and celebrated with close family, friends and colleagues by watching the company’s first stock get traded.

The common stock is now officially listed on NASDAQ, trading under the symbol “TSC.”

“When we founded TriState Capital six years ago, we saw an opportunity to build a bank from the ground up, combining the capabilities of a large financial institution with the personalized service of a smaller bank,” said Getz. “We soon became one of the fastest-growing banks in the nation, and today TriState Capital has achieved another milestone that will help it to continue that progress. Bill, Mark and I thank everyone who helped us get to this point and we look forward to an exciting future as a publicly traded company with continued success in serving our clients.”

“Since its foundation, TriState Capital Holdings has targeted the community of middle market businesses, executives and high-net-worth individuals, and has created an institution that focuses primarily on the needs of this middle client base,” said Nelson Griggs, senior vice president, NASDAQ OMX. “Like many of NASDAQ’s listed companies, TriState Capital began with an idea and an opportunity, which has since resulted in TriState Capital becoming one of the fastest growing banks in the nation. We are proud to welcome TriState Capital to the NASDAQ family, and look forward to watching its continued growth as a public company.”
