Tim Moriarity serves as senior vice president of equipment finance for TriState Capital Bank.

He is responsible for developing marketing strategies, strategic planning and implementation of TriState Capital's equipment financing arm.

Tim has more than 30 years in the commercial lending industry. Prior to joining TriState Capital, Tim served at a large independent bank where he was first vice president and regional sales director. As a veteran of the equipment leasing and finance industry, Moriarity brings expertise to the bank that will expand its funding and commercial finance solutions.

Tim earned a master's degree in business administration as well as a bachelor's degree from the University of Pittsburgh.
